

Optimum Organization of the Cotton Ginning Industry in the Texas Southern High Plains

Brent D. McPeck

M.S. Thesis

Sukant Misra, Advisor

Texas Tech University, May 1997

This study analyzes the existing organizational structure of the Cotton Ginning Industry in the Southern High Plains of Texas and recommends an alternative structure that can save the industry approximately $15 million per year. The study identifies the number, size, and location of gins in the Southern High Plains of Texas that could maximize the performance of gins with a minimum cost.